Dear Minister,

On behalf of the Board of Trustees of the World Economic Forum, the International Organization for Public-Private Cooperation, I am pleased to invite you to the World Economic Forum Annual Meeting, which will take place in Davos-Klosters, Switzerland, from 21 to 24 January 2020 under the theme Act with Impact.

In the 50 years since its creation, the Annual Meeting has become the world's most impactful high-level gathering, bringing together leaders of government, international organizations, business and civil society to shape global, regional and industry agendas at the beginning of the year.

The Netherlands plays a key role in catalysing international action to tackle the top global challenges of our time. Given your strong personal leadership in areas such as peace and conflict, climate change and environmental threats, the circular economy and investing in humanitarian affairs, your participation in the Annual Meeting would be greatly appreciated.

The Forum will work closely with your office over the coming months to build a special agenda that meets your strategic interests and evolving priorities.

I look forward to your active engagement and to welcoming you to the Forum's 50th Annual Meeting in January.

Yours sincerely,

Børge Brende

Dear Minister,

It is my great pleasure and honour to invite you to the 51st World Economic Forum Annual Meeting, which will take place from 26 to 29 January 2021 in Davos-Klosters, Switzerland.

With this true global gathering, bringing together political, business, civil society and media leaders at the highest level, the Forum aims to provide a clear signal, at the beginning of next year, that the world has moved out of the COVID-19 pandemic. The discussions will focus on shaping policies for the post-COVID-19 era under the theme of the Great Reset.

Of course, the meeting will only be held if the Forum can guarantee the safety and health of all participants.

As you co-chair the Forum's Global Action Group and are a member of the Regional Action Group for the Middle East and North Africa, your contributions to the work of the Great Reset will be especially critical at the Annual Meeting. Your participation in the deliberations in Davos would also ensure that the Netherlands take a large role in shaping the future of the global trading system.

The Forum will work with your staff to ensure that your participation becomes a major force in shaping the Great Reset. I look forward to welcoming you in Davos.

Yours sincerely,

Warmest regards,

Dear Minister,

It is my great pleasure to invite you to the World Economic Forum Annual Meeting 2022, which will take place in Davos-Klosters from 17 to 21 January.

It is essential for the world's foremost political, business and civil society leaders to come together once again in order to restore trust in the ability to shape the future in collaborative ways.

Given the key role of the Netherlands in Europe, particularly on trade and the green transition, as well as your country's global diplomatic efforts, your perspectives will be critical to the deliberations.

The Forum will work closely with your office to ensure that your participation is of the greatest relevance for you and the Netherlands.

I look forward to welcoming you personally in Davos.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Minister,

The global community is facing unprecedented times with the dramatic spread of COVID-19, which continues to impact lives, livelihoods, communities and businesses worldwide. Responding to this crisis requires global cooperation among governments, international organizations and the business community. Such cooperation is at the centre of the World Economic Forum's mission as the International Organization for Public-Private Cooperation.

To meet this urgent need, the World Economic Forum, chief executives of more than 200 companies and the World Health Organization (WHO) have launched the COVID Action Platform. As you are a key representative of your government, it would be a pleasure to have you join the COVID Action Platform here: <https://www.weforum.org/platforms/covid-action-platform>.

In recent days, the Forum has received tremendous interest and support from business leaders. They are pledging to help governments in areas such as providing resources for vaccine development, stimulating new plans to keep supply chains open, and sharing best practices to manage workers. These proposals need government partnership and backing to be fully effective.

As this virus is impacting almost every aspect of societies and economies, the Forum understands that you may feel that other ministries or authorities in your country are better placed to be integrated into the COVID Action Platform. Should this be the case, kindly transfer this invitation to those leaders in your country managing the COVID-19 response.

I look forward to your active engagement in and support of this important initiative.

Yours sincerely,

Tuesday 11 May 2021

Dear Minister,

Dear Sigrid,

It is my pleasure to invite you to co-chair the World Economic Forum's new Global Action Group – a select group of ministers, chief executives, heads of international organizations, and experts from leading research institutions.

The Forum is launching the Global Action Group to identify and consider ways to strengthen, reshape or rebuild systems of collaboration in a turbulent global context. Recent events have made clear that multistakeholder collaboration is needed not only to address immediate economic and public-health challenges, but also to set the foundation for global security, prosperity and resiliency in the years ahead.

The group will convene once a month for virtual meetings, with the first meeting to be held on Monday 8 June from 14.00 to 15.00 CEST. Meetings will be strictly off the record.

It is crucial to fulfil the era-defining charge of emerging from the crisis brought about by the COVID-19 pandemic with the tools for a more inclusive, sustainable future. I hope you will help to lead this important dialogue.

Dear Minister,

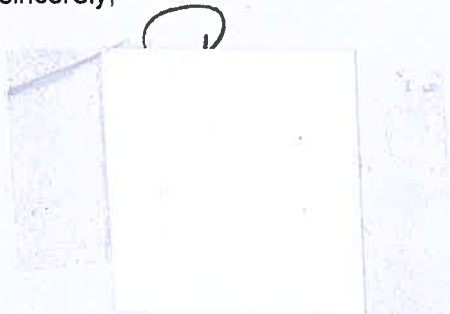

Thank you for your participation in the inaugural meeting of the World Economic Forum Global Action Group. We had a unique and productive dialogue, and I look forward to your continued engagement in the community.

The dialogue showed the widespread concern about weakening global cooperation. A number of participants offered perspectives on how to strengthen cooperation broadly, as well as across key areas of technology, the economy and security. It is my hope that as this community continues to convene, the discussions of these issues will deepen and will identify areas for common action.

The next meeting of the Global Action Group will be held on 7 July from 15.00 to 16.15 CEST. You will soon receive an invitation with registration details and an agenda.

I am pleased to share a summary of the discussions. This document and the concept note that was shared earlier are meant for reference by members of the Global Action Group only.

Dear Minister,

It is my pleasure to invite you to the third meeting of the Global Action Group, which will take place on 15 September 2020 from 15.00 to 16.15 CEST.

This meeting will identify areas of alignment and will ask members to begin to develop a set of Shared Principles for Global Cooperation.

Based on themes that emerged in previous discussions, the Forum has drafted six principles as a starting point for deliberation. In your role as co-chair, I hope you will agree to offer a brief opening intervention on Principle 6: Promote Peace and Security.

Consult the agenda of the meeting for further information regarding the draft principles.

Please register via TopLink to participate in the meeting.

I look forward to your active contributions to the discussions.

Invitation to upcoming COVID-19 Action Platform virtual meetings - 27 May / 3 June dinsdag 26 mei 2020 18:26:10

View in a browser

Dear Minister,

Since its inception the World Economic Forum COVID Action Platform, with its community of more than 1,150 organizations, has made progress on more than 40 projects, ranging from developing workforce principles for chief human resource officers, to scaling the production of 3D printed products to help with the response.

The next virtual meetings will take place as follows:

- Wednesday 27 May, 17.30–18.15 CEST – Download calendar link
- Wednesday 3 June, 14.30–15.45 CEST – Download calendar link

The dial-in details and agenda can be found below or on the calendar links.

These will be the final COVID Action Platform Global Leaders virtual meetings. Next Wednesday, on 3 June, I hope you will join me, HRH The Prince of Wales, and other global leaders to launch the Great Reset Initiative and begin the global dialogue on resilience and future readiness.

The Forum's COVID Action Platform

As the COVID-19 response continues, and as epidemics and pandemics assume a greater role on global and business agendas, the COVID Action Platform will continue as well.

The COVID Action Platform serves to support you in effectively responding to the COVID-19 pandemic and to stay ahead of global health security challenges.

- Engage executives leading your organizational response, through the Forum's industry- and region-specific action groups, and peer communities for COVID-19 task force leads, chief human resource officers, chief economists, chief operating and supply chain officers, and more. Contact your key Forum counterpart.
- Visit TopLink to learn more about the more than 40 projects, initiatives and working groups, and join the virtual community.
- Follow the latest updates from the COVID Action Platform's projects and activities.
- Support the Stakeholder Principles in the COVID Era.
- Get the latest insights on the coronavirus and its effects on global health, the economy and more using the Forum's Strategic Intelligence platform.
- Write for Agenda to meaningfully engage with a global audience and highlight your leadership.

The COVID Action Platform team remains at your disposal. Should you have a question or require help, please email [\[redacted\]](#)

Thank you for all that has been achieved on this platform and for your continued partnership in the challenges ahead.

Trade Multistakeholder Conversation

Virtual Dialogues, Wednesday 8 July 2020

Dear Minister,

The World Economic Forum is pleased to invite you to Trade Multistakeholder Conversation 2020. MC2020 is day of online workshops and interactions on the future of trade. It will take place on Wednesday 8 July across multiple time zones. See below on how to register for the event.

Although the WTO's Twelfth Ministerial Conference will not take place next month, dialogue on trade reform is more urgent than ever. The COVID-19 pandemic added a massive shock to a system already strained by geopolitical, societal, economic and environmental tensions.

Since we cannot meet in person, this virtual gathering allows us to tackle a range of hot-button issues, scheduled over one date for convenience, impact and synergies. An initial programme is available here and summarised below. We will shortly have more details on side-events run by partners.

Participants include senior business, government, civil society and academic representatives. Please note access is available only to registered participants. If you are unable to join the discussion, you are welcome to nominate a senior colleague. Write to us with any questions and make sure to register by 30 June. Do join the conversation on LinkedIn in the meantime.

We hope to see you in July.

Yours sincerely,

Sean Doherty
Head, International Trade and Investment
Member of the Executive Committee, World Economic Forum

Programme Highlights

The latest programme is available on Toplink following registration. Here are some highlights:

Subsidies & Industrial Policy

Government stimulus is battling COVID-19 impacts, but how will this affect trade?

Future of the Trade System

Trade system tension could affect critical supply chains, so what changes are needed?

Society, Trade & COVID-19

How will the pandemic affect trade's role in societies facing high unemployment?

Reimagining Investment

With investment set to plummet, what can business and policymakers do in response?

Green Trade Recovery

What trade policies should be prioritized and accelerated to rebuild greener?

Digital Trade: Services & Payment

COVID-19's made digital essential, but how do we sustain growth in non-physical trade?

Facilitation via Innovation

As trade needs to keep moving, practically, how do we deploy new technologies?

How to Register and Join

The dialogues will place on Toplink, the Forum's digital event and collaboration platform.

Confirm your participation on Toplink.

For assistance with registration, please see this tutorial. Should you have any issues accessing Toplink or registering for the event, contact help@weforum.org. Dear Minister,

It is a great pleasure to invite you to the World Economic Forum Special Meeting on the Middle East in the Fourth Industrial Revolution, which will take place in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on 5 and 6 April 2020.

The meeting will convene the most relevant leaders from government, business and civil society to take a global view of the region's future at a pivotal moment for the Middle East in light of Saudi Arabia's G20 presidency.

Its timing could not be more significant, given the paradigm shifts in technology, sustainability and geo-economic relations globally that are poised to transform the trajectories of companies and governments and deeply affect private lives.

The Fourth Industrial Revolution and its implications will be front and centre in the programme, as will the World Economic Forum's long-standing work on other transformative issues, such as reskilling, financial inclusion, climate change, smart cities and the energy transition.

Given your membership in the Forum's Middle East and North Africa Stewardship Board and your work to promote financial inclusion among the region's youth and women, participants would welcome your perspectives on achieving inclusive growth in the Middle East.

The Forum will work closely with your team to develop a personalized agenda aimed at having maximum impact for you and your ministry. We look forward to welcoming you in Riyadh in April.

Yours sincerely,

Mirek Dusek
Member of the Executive Committee;
Head of the Middle East and North Africa

HRI High-Level Group meeting

Virtual Meeting, 11 November, 14:30-15:30 CET

Dear Minister,

I greatly valued our exchange in July to discuss the direction of the Humanitarian and Resilience Investing Initiative and our recent call to action on Humanitarian and Resilience Investing in the COVID-19 Era that was published by Forbes.

I am pleased to invite you to the High-Level Group virtual meeting that will take place on Wednesday, 11 November, 14:30-15:30 CET / 08:30-09:30 ET.

Ahead of the meeting, you can access the 2020-21 agenda, which provides an update on progress made since we last met at Davos, as well as proposals for actions we can take to drive the Initiative towards the impact we all want to see. Please send your feedback on the updates and key asks included in 2020-21 agenda by Monday, 2 November.

I would like to provide a high-level view of the key areas where your engagement is needed:

- Project pipeline

While progress has been made on the projects in the pipeline, we need to do more to cultivate additional projects if we are to collectively lead change the ecosystem. To that end we are continuing to seek out compelling proofs-of-concept that can absorb capital at scale. One lens through which we are looking to develop these proofs-of-concept is through a regional focus on the Sahel. We are also proposing interventions early in the project life cycle to catalyze the pipeline – notably a seed funding facility to support pilot design, and an early stage fund to finance pilots with potential for scale.

- Organizational readiness

Building on the Organizational Readiness playbook developed by BCG and SDC/ECHO, we are working to position the initiative as a hub of research, development, and education for the broader community. The hub will not be an extensive new structure driving these activities, but rather a lean node providing visibility to efforts in the ecosystem and mobilizing collaboration across stakeholders.

- Investor engagement

GIB Asset Management has led the effort to explore the role of data in unlocking humanitarian and resilience investing in a draft white paper, which will be shared with you soon. Going forward, this workstream is looking to make contributions towards overcoming the challenges identified in the paper and would welcome your collaboration.

Please note that participation will be limited to the principal and the focal point. I look forward to discussing these proposals with you at the meeting.

Yours sincerely,

Børge Brende

Global Technology Governance Summit 2020

Save the date - San Francisco 6-7 October

Meeting overview >

Dear Minister,

We hope that you, your family, and colleagues are coping well with the current situation. The need for innovative approaches to unforeseen challenges has definitely been amplified as a result of COVID-19.

Technologies of the Fourth Industrial Revolution represent an opportunity to address these, but doing so requires global, agile, informal collaboration throughout business, government, academia and civil society, as well as rapid experimentation with new governance models.

These are the principles upon which the World Economic Forum established the Centre for the Fourth Industrial Revolution Global Network, now operational in 12 countries and with the engagement of hundreds of leading institutions.

Building on this effort, the inaugural Global Technology Governance Summit will convene high-level leaders from industry, government, civil society and the technology sector to co-design transparent and inclusive frameworks such as:

- Trusted AI-enabling solutions in various domains such as health, agriculture, transport, energy, and the environment
- Data for Common Purpose Initiative, which accelerates the secure and equitable sharing of data for agreed on usage
- Digital Coin in the global financial context and its implications
- A window on frontier technologies such as space and synthetic biology and their implications

Please save the date for the 6-7 October 2020. An invitation will follow in the coming weeks.

Your leadership is crucial in formulating and implementing innovative solutions in the new global context.

Global Action Group Virtual Meeting

Dear Minister,

Last week we convened the second meeting of the Global Action Group. The future-oriented dialogue addressed measures to build resilience, deepen public-private partnerships, commit to a global social contract and strengthen humanitarian frameworks.

A key theme that emerged in the conversation was the need for leaders to rebuild trust with one another and within societies. As we continue our dialogues, it is my hope that we identify steps that can create common cause among stakeholders for rebuilding in a more sustainable and equitable manner.

We will reconvene the Global Action Group on 15 September from 15.00 to 16.15 CEST, with a formal invitation extended shortly.

Global Action Group

Summary and Next Meeting

Dear Minister,

Last week, participants in the third meeting of the World Economic Forum's Global Action Group made progress on identifying alignment among members on three principles to guide a geopolitical reset: strengthen global cooperation, deepen public-private partnerships and rebuild sustainably.

The upcoming meeting will focus on additional principles with which the group can align. Because it is the Forum's belief that in order to renew and revitalize systems of cooperation leaders will need to articulate key areas of agreement, it is my hope that the Global Action Group will present a set of shared principles at the Davos Dialogues in January.

I am pleased to share the summary of the meeting.

We will reconvene the Global Action Group on 3 December from 15.00 to 16.15 CET, with a formal invitation extended shortly. Your voice and leadership are an integral part of the community; thus, I hope you will be able to join the next meeting.

Yours sincerely,

Børge Brende

Please confirm your participation on Toplink. For further details, view this short video on how to register and join the meeting.

On the agenda:

Global Trade and Geo-economics Outlook and Implications for the Middle East

COVID-19 has hampered economic growth, intensified trade and economic tensions and upended energy markets. With barriers to trade and investment already on the rise before the pandemic, how will strategic business ties evolve between global powers and regional economies? And how will the ensuing geo-economic dynamics affect economies in the Middle East and global energy markets?

On the agenda:

1) Finalization of Principles of Stakeholder Capitalism for the MENA

Since our last meeting, a number of members have already endorsed the Principles of Stakeholder Capitalism. We will share the final version before going ahead with publication.

2) Making Supply Chains More Resilient

COVID-19 has disrupted current supply chains and laid bare the risks of operating them with the sole purpose of minimizing costs and inventory. While this may not entirely lead to moving investment towards reshoring/near shoring, it may fasten the process of moving supply chains closer to the markets they serve. As it faces a potential second wave, what are the lessons learned for leaders in the Middle East and how can they make their supply chains more resilient?

Growth engines for the post-Covid era in the Middle East and North Africa

Technology start-ups in the Middle East and North Africa have raised more than 1$ billion in 2020, with most of the deals made in the healthcare, fintech and e-commerce sectors. These have been a boon to governments' efforts to forge ahead in reducing the region's dependence on hydrocarbons, which still accounts for 40% of regional economic activity, and to bolster home-grown innovation.

On which key areas should leaders focus their efforts over the next year, particularly concerning the domains of technology and digitalization, to engender a step-change in the Middle East and North Africa's competitiveness?

On the agenda:

Resetting Investment Strategies for the Post-COVID World

The world is heading towards a critical juncture: a second wave of infections is knee-capping key economies and forcing governments to renew their restrictions. The result of the US election will change the global trade landscape and the architecture of the world's economy. At the same time, the neck-breaking pace of efforts to deliver a COVID-19 vaccine and the positive developments in some Asian economies might yet brighten global economic prospects.

In this context, how can investors in the Middle East and North Africa effectively navigate the uncertainty of global and regional markets to design strategies that are both profitable and sustainable in the long run?

Onderwerp: Invitation | HRI High-Level Group meeting | 11 November, 14:30-15:30 CET

HRI High-Level Group meeting

Virtual Meeting, 11 November, 14:30-15:30 CET

Dear Minister,

I greatly valued our exchange in July to discuss the direction of the Humanitarian and Resilience Investing Initiative and our recent call to action on Humanitarian and Resilience Investing in the COVID-19 Era that was published by Forbes.

I am pleased to invite you to the High-Level Group virtual meeting that will take place on Wednesday, 11 November, 14:30-15:30 CET / 08:30-09:30 ET.

Ahead of the meeting, you can access the 2020-21 agenda, which provides an update on progress made since we last met at Davos, as well as proposals for actions we can take to drive the Initiative towards the impact we all want to see. Please send your feedback on the updates and key asks included in 2020-21 agenda by Monday, 2 November.

I would like to provide a high-level view of the key areas where your engagement is needed:

- Project pipeline

While progress has been made on the projects in the pipeline, we need to do more to cultivate additional projects if we are to collectively lead change the ecosystem. To that end we are continuing to seek out compelling proofs-of-concept that can absorb capital at scale. One lens through which we are looking to develop these proofs-of-concept is through a regional focus on the Sahel. We are also proposing interventions early in the project life cycle to catalyze the pipeline – notably a seed funding facility to support pilot design, and an early stage fund to finance pilots with potential for scale.

- Organizational readiness

Building on the Organizational Readiness playbook developed by BCG and SDC/ECHO, we are working to position the initiative as a hub of research, development, and education for the broader community. The hub will not be an extensive new structure driving these activities, but rather a lean node providing visibility to efforts in the ecosystem and mobilizing collaboration across stakeholders.

- Investor engagement

GIB Asset Management has led the effort to explore the role of data in unlocking humanitarian and resilience investing in a draft white paper, which will be shared with you soon. Going forward, this workstream is looking to make contributions towards overcoming the challenges identified in the paper and would welcome your collaboration.

Please note that participation will be limited to the principal and the focal point. I look forward to discussing these proposals with you at the meeting.

Yours sincerely,

Børge Brende
President

SESSION STRUCTURE
Countering COVID-19 Shocks in Fragile Contexts

Thursday 24 September 17:30 - 18:15

Preparatory discussion: 17:05 - 17:30

Due to growing challenges and inadequate resources, between 70 and 100 million people could slide into extreme poverty in 2020 and 2 million preventable deaths could occur because of health disruption. How can governments, investors, humanitarian and development actors work together to build resilience for future shocks?

Simultaneous interpretation in French, Mandarin Chinese and Spanish

Reporting press: Allowed.

Session duration: 45 minutes.

Context:

The impact of COVID-19 on the developing world and fragile contexts is yet to be fully revealed, but the World Bank is already projecting that COVID-19 could push 71 million people into extreme poverty in 2020. These populations cannot be left out of the Great Reset Initiative and therefore it is crucial to raise awareness of the out sized impacts of the crisis on vulnerable populations, and provide a platform to discuss solutions to invest in more resilient systems. Objective:

To highlight the plight of vulnerable populations as a result of COVID [particularly refugee populations], and to showcase the potential to build long-term resilience in fragile contexts through Humanitarian and Resilience Investing Initiative.

The session will include:

SESSION FLOW

T- 20-25' BEFORE: Pre-session briefing / waiting room

The moderator and speaker will join the virtual speakers' room 30 minutes prior to the session start for a preparatory briefing.

Panellists are welcomed by the Host, receive audio-visual check with production team and session briefing from the moderator.

T- 5-10' BEFORE: Begin Broadcast

Host begins the webinar to allow attendees in, they enter with the "House Rules" presentation.

17:30: Session start

The host will prompt the moderator to begin the session by turning on her camera and taking down the welcome slide.

17:30-17:35: Welcome and housekeeping [5 minutes]

At the start of the session, the moderator will introduce the speakers, flow and objective of the session and highlights that questions can be asked throughout the session via Slido.com

Potential poll to set the energy in the room:

- Word cloud: What are the key challenges facing people living in a humanitarian or fragile context?

17:35-17:55: Interactive Discussion [25 minutes]

The moderator engages the panellists in a lively discussion to get their perspectives on the issue. The moderator can build on the introductory segment by asking short questions that create a dynamic flow of interaction among the panellists.

Guiding questions:

- How has the COVID-19 pandemic shifted the ways that different stakeholders need to work together?
- What has been the direct impact of COVID-19 on the most vulnerable communities? What will be the socio-economic impact on these communities, in particular refugees, over the coming 6-12 months?
- The economic recession will have a significant impact on aid budgets; what resources and what kind of new partnerships will be required to support countries and communities to a more sustainable, long-term recovery?
- 72% of impact investors surveyed by the Global Impact Investing Network (GIIN) expect to maintain or expand their portfolios in response to COVID-19. What is changing among business and investors to create impact in fragile contexts?

17:55-18:10: Q&A [15 minutes]

The moderator selects questions coming in via Slido. The moderator may consider engaging the audience earlier and is encouraged to ensure that questions are concise and relevant to the session topics.

18:10-18:15 Conclusion [5 minutes]

The moderator brings the discussion to a close and thanks everybody. They can invite participants/viewers to share their reflections on social media channels or TopLink.
